35th Annual Gallery Walk Announced

The 35th ANNUAL HARRISBURG GALLERY WALK on Sunday, September 10, from noon to 5pm, will showcase art exhibitions in eighteen venues, plus tours of the City's murals conducted by Sprocket Muralworks. This free public art event is a highlight of Harrisburg's annual cultural scene, with both formal exhibition spaces and alternative ones, such as the City's historic churches. The Art Association founded Gallery Walk 35 years ago as a way to introduce all the City's exhibition venues to the public, to show people they could find great art right here, without travelling to New York and other larger metropolitan centers.

Included in the September 10 Gallery Walk are: The Art Association of Harrisburg, The Historical Society of Dauphin County, The Riverfront Gallery at St. Stephen's Episcopal Cathedral, The State Museum of Pennsylvania, St. Michael's Lutheran Church, Susquehanna Art Museum, Salem United Church of Christ, Midtown Scholar Bookstore, Vivi on Verbeke, Historic Harrisburg Association, Capital Area School for the Arts Charter School, The Millworks, McCormick Riverfront Library, Old City Hall Apartments, Zion Lutheran Church, Gallery@Second, The Civic Club, and Nyeusi Gallery, as well as Sprocket Muralworks' tours.

The map for Gallery Walk will be posted at www.artassocofhbg.com, and printed brochures will be available at the venues.

2023 Fall Membership Exhibition “Art Is...”

By Curator Rachel O'Connor

The Art Association of Harrisburg is pleased to present the fall membership exhibition theme, “Art is...” The exhibition will run from September 1st through November 2nd, 2023 with a reception on Gallery Walk Day, September 10th, 2023 from noon to 5pm. Music during Gallery Walk will be provided by “Hemlock Hollow.” The exhibition sponsors are Randy Michener and David Volkman.

When you read the phrase, “art is...” did your mind automatically fill in the rest of the sentence? Perhaps you thought, “Art is necessary” or “Art is freedom” or even something like, “Art is fun!” The purpose of this exhibition is to dive into the interpretation – what art is, what does art mean to the artist, what is its purpose or the function of art. In the book “Art as Therapy,” co-authors John Armstrong and Alain de Botton suggest that the purpose of art is to make up for our psychological shortcomings by extending, “...our capacities beyond those that nature has originally endowed us with.” In this way, art functions as a tool to aid humanity; be it the artist or the viewer. Armstrong and de Botton lay out seven specific functions of art: remembering, hope, sorrow, rebalancing, self-understanding, growth, and appreciation. Let’s look at the function of remembering. As humans, we naturally forget things – moments, encounters, people – art can be used as a tool to overcome this psychological “shortcoming.” When Armstrong and de Botton speak of remembering, they are specifically referring to remembering nuances of a moment or the idiosyncrasies of a person. For example, in the painting Woman Reading a Letter by Johannes Vermeer, the figure appears to be completely absorbed by the letter she is reading. This is indicated by certain idiosyncrasies, such as the way she grips onto the paper, whereas another reader may hold the letter lightly with the tips of their fingers. Remembering is not about recalling the features on a loved one’s face, but rather the way their eyes would squint every time they smiled or the way they focused intently during conversation. These are moments we can forget as time passes, but art can aid in our remembering.

So, what is art to you? What does art mean to you? What is its function or purpose? Whichever question you choose, we at the AAH look forward to seeing your answer to “Art is...” We welcome all styles and mediums. If you have questions about the fall membership exhibition theme, please contact curator Rachel O'Connor at Rachel@artassocofhbg.com.
